Professor Ross will tell the fascinating story from his new book, Hitler in Los Angeles, about how a small group secretly infiltrated pro-Nazi groups in the Los Angeles area in the Depression and early World War II years. Based on original archival research, the book was a National Book Award finalist in history.

The talk, is sponsored by the Cinema Studies Program, Department of English, Department of History, Judaic Studies, and the Humanities Center.